

PACKING SUGGESTIONS

DON'T OVERPACK

You don't need a lot of clothing and accessories if you have the right gear. Carefully chosen gear that works is the key to being comfortably dressed to fully enjoy your expedition.

Plan Ahead

We strongly recommend you place your order at least 30 days before your sailing date.

PACKING CHECKLIST

Base Layer

- Long underwear: Perfect layering garment. Provides warmth without bulk.

Insulation Layer

- Fleece, Loft Jacket or Vest: Lightweight loft or polar fleece jackets and a vest can be worn alone or in combination during chilly days and out on deck in the evening.

Shirts & Pants

- Shirts: Short and long-sleeved shirts/blouses: Due to the unpredictable weather, pack t-shirts that you can wear under your shirt as a layer for extra warmth or by itself.
- Pants: Pack lightweight and fast drying pants. Or, to lighten your luggage, choose pants that zip off to create shorts.

Outer Layer

- Rain Jacket: Lightweight rain jacket that is packable, lightweight, waterproof and with a hood.
- Rain poncho/cape: A rain poncho is an economical solution to staying dry.

Footwear

- Hiking Boots/Walking Shoes: Flexible with sturdy soles for hiking and walking ashore.

Hats & Socks

- Hat: A waterproof hat with a brim and chinstrap.
- Socks: Socks made of wool or wool blend that cushion the feet well and wick moisture.

Accessories

- Backpack: Lightweight and waterproof backpack for carrying items ashore and keeping your arms free.
- Sun and wind protection: Sunglasses with U.V. filter protection. Lip balm and waterproof sunscreen (SPF 30 minimum). Mosquito protection.
- Binoculars: Compact, high performance binoculars ensure you don't miss a thing.
